CJ Griffin the Practice Group Leader for Pashman Stein Walder Hayden's Media Law Group was interviewed by Emily Drooby for the Verizon FiOS1 New Jersey's on-air story, "Glen Rock sued over councilman blocking resident's Facebook account Lawyer argues that it's unfair to block a citizen's voice on social media."

The story reports on a facebook comment made by a Glen Rock resident on Councilman William "Skip" Huisking's official Facebook account, which caused him to block the resident, and has led to that resident's husband filing a lawsuit and open record request in the town. The post was promoted by the removal of large trees at a Glen Rock playground, which upset the community because the park no longer has shade from the sun.
