CJ Griffin, Pashman Stein Walder Hayden's media law attorney was mentioned in TAPinto Flemington article, "TAPinto Flemington Begins Its Third Year Online."

"I can only take partial credit for that success," Editor Curtis Leeds said. "The real credit there goes to CJ Griffin, the attorney at Pashman, Stein, Walder, Hayden that represented me in that matter."

"Griffin was able to obtain a settlement in that matter," Leeds said, "which was an egregious violation of our copyrights."
