Joseph C. Barsalona II, partner at Pashman Stein Walder Hayden, was featured in Law.com "On the Move" Column on his joining Pashman Stein Walder Hayden, based in the firm's newly established Delaware office. Barsalona focuses his practice on in-court and out-of-court restructurings, distressed asset sales and bankruptcy litigation. He regularly represents debtors, official committees, secured and unsecured creditors, distressed investors, independent directors, asset purchasers and other parties in interest and in all phases of Chapter 11 proceedings and related trial and appellate litigation.

Prior to joining Pashman Stein, Barsalona worked for two Delaware-based firms (Morris, Nichols, Arsht & Tunnell and Richards, Layton & Finger) and is knowledgeable of the state's local rules and procedures.
