Pashman Stein Walder Hayden announced today that Suzanne M. Bradley and Michael J. Zoller have been elevated from Associate to Counsel, effective January 1, 2019.

Suzanne M. Bradley joined the firm's Litigation practice as an associate in 2014, and focuses on complex commercial litigation, including business disputes involving claims such as tortious interference and breach of contract. Prior to joining Pashman Stein, Bradley was a litigation associate at one of the legacy firms that combined to form Squire Patton Boggs (Patton Boggs). She is actively involved with the Volunteer Lawyers for Justice's Generation Now Committee, and is a founding member of Pashman Stein's Women's Leadership Committee. She is admitted to the Bars of New Jersey and New York.

Bradley received her B.A., cum laude, from Amherst College and her J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law. During law school, she served as the managing editor for the Virginia Sports and Entertainment Law Journal and received a Pro Bono Challenge certificate.

Michael J. Zoller joined the firm's Litigation practice as an associate in 2011, after graduating from the Seton Hall University School of Law. Zoller focuses his practice on complex commercial litigation, as well as personal injury, insurance defense work and coverage disputes, and intellectual property. During law school, Zoller was a member of the Seton Hall University School of Law's Juvenile Justice Clinic where he assisted juveniles who were awaiting trial. He earned his B.A. from the Johns Hopkins University. He is admitted to the Bars of New Jersey and New York.

“We are pleased to extend these well-deserved promotions to both Suzanne and Michael, who have been dedicated to providing strategic counsel to our clients on litigation matters. We see promising futures in both of these lawyers, and appreciate their contributions to Pashman Stein,” said the firm’s Managing Partner Michael Stein.
