

How To Use NJ Open Public Records Act To Get The Scoop

---

9.9.14

RELATED ATTORNEYS

CJ Griffin

Published by Media & Entertainment and New Jersey Law360

Elected officials and government employees are often overly cooperative with media when the subject matter involves an issue near and dear to their hearts, advances their political talking points, or is otherwise beneficial to them. But, when the media is attempting to uncover scandal, government waste or potential wrongdoing, journalists often find that their requests for interviews and information are denied and that the elected official suddenly has “no comment.”

RELATED PRACTICE AREAS

Media Law